Thank you for your interest in our Wireless Internet Service in the Helderberg Village.

How it works:

The service makes use of Wireless Internet technology and is not reliant on landline telephone lines as far as the client side installation is concerned.

The HelderConnect Wireless service has been online within the village since 29 September 2004 and we do have a number of subscribers successfully accessing the internet 24hrs per day. For connectivity it would be necessary to install hardware at the user's residence in order to receive the transmitted signal.

In addition it is also necessary to have an adequate computer system which is capable of dealing with Wireless Technology, which is utilised for transmitting and receiving the signals.

Various additional services are also available such as a personal e-mail address in the event that your current Internet Service Provider account is cancelled (this would result in the loss of your current e-mail address). It is possible to have an e-mail such as yourname@helderconnect.co.za for R 9.00 per month.

(Fax to E-Mail services and International callback services can also be arranged.)

Our recommendation is that the Wireless Internet Service and the various implications and additional services are best explained in person and that a visit by our staff can answer any further queries by visiting yourself at your convenience.
